AI use disclosure

Deriv uses artificial intelligence (“AI”) tools to support parts of our recruitment process. This disclosure explains, in general terms, how AI may be used in connection with your application. It should be read together with our Job Application Privacy Notice.

1. How we may use AI

We may use AI tools to help:

- Review and organise applications
- Compare your qualifications, skills, and experience against job requirements
- Generate summaries of application materials, interview meetings, or interview feedback
- Generally support recruitment assessment

2. What information may be used

AI tools may use personal data you provide during the recruitment process, including information in your application form, CV/resume, cover letter, portfolio, and any interview or assessment feedback.

3. How decisions are made

We use AI to support a limited part of the recruitment process and to help make recruitment more efficient and consistent.

AI does not make final hiring decisions and does not replace human judgement. All final hiring decisions are made by our recruiters and hiring managers.
